“Because of you, I can!”

When things seem out of control, it's easy to think about all the things we can't do. At Any Baby Can, we're focused on what we CAN do.

- We can serve as a stable force in our clients' lives.
- We can provide services through technology.
- We can help client families with immediate needs for food, diapers and more.
- We can be flexible and adaptive. And we need to be.

Surprisingly, the COVID-19 health crisis has brought some positive changes to our work. We ramped up our ability to provide televisits overnight, we're collaborating with new partners to help clients access essentials, like food and diapers, and we're learning new ways to work together as a team.

We continue to enroll new clients in all our programs and classes. However, many of our families don't have the resources they need for the basics, let alone the tools to participate in telehealth.

We have much to do and we need you by our side.

Many of our families had significant life challenges before the coronavirus, and life has only gotten harder. Yet, there's one thing I know for certain: We're all in this together. Now is the time we either step back and stand still, or we step forward and fix the troubles that this crisis has illuminated.

A donation to Any Baby Can directly supports pregnant mothers, parents of young children, and children with special healthcare needs.

“If I can do it, you can too!”

Fatima experienced homelessness and got pregnant at 20 years old. She made some admittedly unfortunate choices and was directed to Any Baby Can's parenting classes. This opportunity changed the course of her and her daughter's life. She learned how to be a better parent and was motivated to provide a better future for her family.

Fatima is now an entrepreneur and gives back to her community. She delivers meals to people in need, with the hope of changing lives beyond her own. Her daughter joins her, witnessing first-hand the importance of giving back and helping others.

I would like to support families with a gift to Any Baby Can.
